WONDERS OF NATURE.-It is a wonder WONDERS OF NATURE.—It is a wonder-ful thing to look abroad over the face of nature, and see how every mineral, vege-table and animal production is constitut-ed, so as to minister in some way to the wants of man—to see the vegetable world allently engaged in extricating mineral matters from the soil, and storing them up for the use of man, and man, im-nelled by instinct. up for the use of man, and man, impelled by instinct, selecting these as his own proper food—to behold not only his food and drink flowing constantly through the ever revolving cycle of three kingdoms, but even his most valuable armaments presented through the same natural channel! It is more than wonderful, it is sublime to view atom force.

fal, it is sublime, to view atom from atom of the whole creation unceasingly changing place, that man, the lord of creation. may be abundantly supplied with all his comforts and luxuries; to see the illies of the field, and the insects of the earth and air, living and dying for man, yielding up their lives for man's sustenance and adornment. True, the lillies of the field take no thought for the morrow, but the unseen facer that green that green the results of the seen facer that green the seen facer. shought for the morrow, but the unseen hager that opens their petals to the day jounts them out as the appropriate food to some of the animals whose life or death ministers to man. The blooming castus not only charms the eye of man, and makes the arid desert blossom as the rose, but it furnishes food for the insect that feeds upon it, and grows and dies to clothe man with the same resplendent
